

Attorneys for Slone hint at possible defense

With their client facing a possible death sentence, attorneys for accused murder Melvin G. Slone said Friday that no one can be put to death if they don’t understand what they did.

Lead Defense Attorney Sam Cox argued in Lee Circuit Court that Slone could fit under that description. In quiet tones, they discussed the possibility of a competency evaluation for Slone, 56, who is accused of the April 11 shooting death of Beattyville businesswoman Martha Bell Hollar.

Hollar was shot in the face the night of April 11 in the front door of her Main Street mobile home. It was then set on fire. Slone is also charged with first-degree arson.

As the discussion took place before Judge Tom Jones, Assistant Commonwealth’s Attorney Kristen Clouse said it was her understanding that competency is based on IQ.

She said she would be happy to look at all issues. Cox said it was premature to say if he might seek an expert witness.

Another status hearing is set for November 21. No trial date has yet been set.

Also in court Friday, the trial date for the other active murder case was moved from November 24 to January 20.

Clouse told the court that the state lab was going to try to have DNA evidence ready by the end of October, but she wasn’t sure if it could be done.

Sarah Bryant, defense attorney for accused murderer Madeline Lykins, 55, agreed with Clouse that the November 24 date might not work.

Lykins is accused of the shooting to death her husband Rexall on October 18 last year in their Primrose Lane home. She is also charged with tampering with physical evidence.

After extensive discussion, James F. Deaton, 68, was sentenced to three years for trafficking in a controlled substance in the first degree.

Looking frail and pushing a portable oxygen tank, Deaton appeared with his attorney Jason Wilson.

Wilson argued for probation saying that his client had a clean criminal record; had been out on bond for a year without any problems; and had a “plethora” of health issues. He said his client had become associated with the wrong person, knew he had done wrong and was remorseful.

“Your honor, I’m sorry I done this,” Deaton said. Clouse argued against probation saying that Deaton had brought hundreds of pills into Lee County.

Judge Jones said he was “shocked” because of $9,850 being found on Deaton at the time of his arrest, and that he had brought so many pills.

Wilson replied that there wasn’t a pill in sight on Deaton.

He did say there was some sort of transaction between his client and Robert Spencer, who has already been convicted.

He said he would disagree about the number of pills sold by Deaton to Spencer.

Jones aid, “This really concerns me.”

Grand jury indicts 14

The Lee County Grand Jury last Friday returned indictments against 14 people, including four for allegedly promoting contraband at the Three Forks Regional Jail.

Herbert D. Allen, 40 of Jackson is alleged on September 7 to have had in his possession a suboxone strip while inside the jail. He is also charged with persistent felony offender in the second degree.

Matt Easter of the Beattyville Police Department was the witness before the grand jury.

On August 19, Ashley McIntosh, 31 of Proctor Bottom Road, is alleged to have had six gabapentin on her person at the jail. McIntosh is also charged with being a persistent felony offender in the second degree.

Greg Brandenburg of the Beattyville Police Department was the witness before the grand jury.

Gregory S. Deck, 23 of Georgetown, is alleged to have on his person 10 and one half oxycodone 30 mg. pills and a baggie containing marijuana at the jail on August 27.

Greg Brandenburg was the witness.

David T. Stamper, 30 of Old Hwy 11, is alleged to have had four suboxone strips on his person at the jail on September 16.

Ryan Lanigan of the Beattyville Police Department was the witness.

Derrick P. Fox, 25 of KY 587, is charged with six counts of wanton endangerment in the first degree, one count of criminal mischief in the first degree and resisting arrest.

Fox is alleged on July 4 to have shown “extreme indifference to the value of human life” when he engaged in conduct “which creates a substantial danger of death or serious physical injury to another person.” Three of those counts of wanton endangerment do not say who the potential victim

Wilson said his client was not a drug “kingpin.”

Jones noted that Deaton was looking at five to 10 years, but the Commonwealth dropped the charge to a Class D felony.

He also said that Deaton was “pretty unlucky” to be caught the only time he brought pills to Lee County.

“That’s exactly what I’m saying,” Wilson said.

“You sold $10,000 worth of pills. I can’t get around that,” said Jones.

Through his attorney, Deaton said that only around $3,000 came from Spencer, He said the rest of the $9,850 was from the sale of timber.

Jones said that then the number of pills wasn’t 1,300, but more like 300 to 400.

He then sustained the plea offer of three offers without probation and said, “You’re the lowest risk level I’ve had today, but you’re the most egregious.”

Brandon Tirey, 33, entered an Alford Plea (saying he was not guilty, but the evidence could convict him) to assault in the second degree and theft by unlawful taking. His attorney, Tom Hall, said he had committed the assault “under extreme emotional disturbance.”

Tirey was charged with assaulting Tyler Moore and taking his billfold.

The plea agreement was for 10 years, five on each charge to run consecutively.

Judge Jones rejected a defense motion for probation for 29-year-old Amanda McIntosh, who violated the terms of her diversion by absconding.

Addressing Jones, McIntosh said, “For a long time I had a lot of health issues. I didn’t really care, but now I do.”

She was sentenced to five years.

Patricia Turner Johnson, 31, entered a guilty plea to trafficking in a controlled substance in the first degree. In exchange, Clouse offered five years, diverted for five years. Turner admitted to selling two percocets to a confidential witness.

Tommy Ray McIntosh, 34 was sentenced to three years for unlawful possession of a meth precursor, possession of a controlled substance in the second degree and second degree persistent felony offender.

Tryle D. Tutt, 41, was sentenced to seven years for criminal mischief in the first degree, fraudulent use of a credit card, theft by unlawful taking and persistent felony offender in the first degree.

Jones told Tutt that the first count (criminal mischief) was enhanced because of his being a first-degree persistent felony offender.

Michael H. Lynch, 26, was sentenced to five years. His diversion had been previously voided after violating its terms. He had originally pled guilty to facilitation to robbery in the first degree.

“Drug court is something I would like,” Lynch told Jones, while seeking probation.

“You could have asked for that in diversion,” Jones said.

Lynch said he and his attorney had not discussed it.

“I’m not liking this nanny option,” Jones responded.

He said that Lynch was just two points away from being high risk of being a repeat offender.

“For today I can’t probate you,” Jones said. “I’m going to impose the sentence.”

Lynch’s wife, Megan, also received a five-year sentence.

Her attorney, Johnathan Gay, asked for probation. He said she had been in jail for eight months.

She did not get the probation, but will be eligible for parole in another month.

Michae Brown, 42, was sentenced to three years for burglary in the third degree and theft by unlawful taking $500 or more, but under $10,000. Bryant, his attorney, said he is eligible for parole.

Jason Reynolds, 34, and Jonah R. Lucas, 35, will have diversion revocation hearings November 21. Ashley McIntosh, 31, has a probation hearing set for that date.

A forfeiture hearing resulted in a pistol being returned to the owner, Ronnie Abney.

Marsha Marcum, 33, faces discretionary detention by Probation and Parole because she did not appear when required.

“You still have to stay in touch with them,” Jones told her. “You’re lucky you’re on diversion, not probation.”

The case against Emanuel L. Wilson, Jr., 41, was dismissed without prejudice because of jurisdiction in another court. The charge was first-degree trafficking in a controlled substance.

Wearing pink or purple

Lee County High School HOSA students led a walk down Main Street Monday afternoon to raise awareness for breast cancer and domestic violence.

A political debate/forum will be held Friday, October 24, in the small conference room at Happy Top. It will begin at 6:30 p.m.

Eye to Eye

with David Blandford, M.D.

EYE SCAN MAY SPOT ALZHEIMER'S

With the number of U.S. Alzheimer's patients expected to climb to 13 million over the next 35 years, the search is on to find a reliable diagnostic test. Until very recently, there have only been clinical tests that help detect fairly advanced cases, and current biological markers of early disease (proteins in spinal fluid, MRI scans of the brain, and brain PET amyloid imaging) are fairly inaccurate, invasive, and expensive. However, breakthrough research has revealed that a simple eye scan may uncover the earliest signs of Alzheimer's disease. By identifying buildups of proteins (beta-amyloid "plaques") in the eye that are similar to those that collect in the brains of Alzheimer's patients, doctors can detect this most common form of dementia.

As today's column suggests, a simple eye test may aid in the early detection of Alzheimer's disease even before memory loss and other symptoms develop. At KENTUCKY EYE INSTITUTE, our facility is designed to provide total eye care. We utilize state-of-the-art instrumentation to ensure our patients' visual well being. Good vision and healthy eyes are your greatest assets throughout your life. We located at 540 Jett Drive, where we strive to achieve excellence in client satisfaction. Please call 606.666.9393 to schedule an appointment. We specialize in "EYECARE FOR ALL AGES."

P.S. The eyes are essentially an extension of the brain, which is why and how the "plaques" associated with Alzheimer's disease may travel from the brain through the optic nerve to the eyes.

PERCENT

That's the percentage of Kentuckians who say they'd be most likely to access public notices in a newspaper.

Only 9% would most likely rely on the Internet or a government website.

In the newspaper, you can read the notices. You can highlight them. You can underline them. You can clip them.

In a newspaper, they're where you can use them.

This fact brought to you by the Kentucky Press Association and its 162 member newspapers.

A different view

By Betty Crabtree

I've been reading in the Book of Ezekial, a prophetic book, and read an interesting verse in Chapter 14:4, before I tell you what it says let me preface it with some other verses. In Galatians 5:19-21 we read, "...how the doings (practices) of the flesh are clear (obvious; they are immorality, impurity, indecency, idolatry, sorcery, enmity, strife, jealousy, anger (ill temper, selfishness, divisions (dissensions), party spirit (factions, sects with peculiar opinions, heresies), envy, drunkenness, carousing, and the like. I warn you beforehand ... that those who do such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God. Verse 18 BUT (if you are led by the Holy Spirit) the fruit (or evidence) of the Holy Spirit [the work which His presence within accomplishes] is love, joy (gladness), peace, patience (an even temper, forbearance), kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness, self-control (self-restraint, continence). Against such things there is no law [ that can bring a charge] Verse 24, And those who belong to Christ Jesus have crucified the flesh (the godless human natureo with its passions and appetites and desires. Verse 22, If we live by the Holy Spirit, let us also walk by the Spirit. [ If by the Holy Spirit we have our life in God, let us go forward walking in line, our conduct controlled by the Spirit.] The Amplified Bible

Now you may think I've gone a long way around to say the following. Verse 21, "That those who do such things" ... hmm. Now back to Ezekial 14:4, God told the prophet Ezekial, "Therefore speak to them and say to them, Thus says the Lord God: Every man of the house of Israel (and remember, no prophecy is of any private interpretation, II Peter 1:20-21) who takes his idols [of self-will and unsubmitiveness] into his heart and puts the stumbling block of his iniquity [idols of silver and gold] before his face, and yet comes to the prophet to inquire of him, I the Lord will answer him according to the multitude of his idols, (underlining is mine). This then reminds me of another verse in the N.T., Galatians 6:7.

Do not be deceived, for God will not be mocked ... He inevitably deludes himself who attempts to delude God. For whatever a man sows, that and that only is what he will reap.

Worth thinking about?

Lee County Public Library Board Members View Blue Prints of Proposed Library

Submitted by Allen Booth

On October 16, Architect Anthony J. Wehrie, Berea, who is working on the construction plans for the new Lee County Public Library, brought a "working" blueprint of the proposed structure to the board for their perusal and to visualize the layout of the library. Seeing this preliminary blueprint enabled the board members to suggest modifications, etc.

With the eventual closing the Beattyville Elementary School and their students being relocated to Southside, the new library will be situated in an ideal location to serve all students.

The present plans call for a library that has 11,400 square feet and will be located in the Lee County Industrial Park.

With our DVD tribute, the memory can remain as clear as your TV screen.

We offer a DVD as part of our service because we know the families we serve appreciate it. It's just another way we go beyond the service.

Chapter 6
Chloe loved my brilliant idea of browsing through Mr. B.'s books and newspapers to find recipes that would remind him of home. Chloe had chosen the recipes. We would begin preparing them around 5 p.m. so they'd be ready for our 6 p.m. dinner. Mom said Chloe and I could do it by ourselves as long as we cleaned up the mess.
"Mr. B., what a surprise," we exclaimed, when Mr. B. arrived seven hours before dinner!
"Surprise?" Mr. B. asked. "Didn't you invite me to dinner today? Where I'm from, dinner's at noon and supper's in the evening."
"If you eat dinner at noon, when do you eat lunch?" I asked, hoping there were four meals a day instead of three.

"We only eat lunch if we eat dinner at night," Mr. B. replied.
"Excuse me?" Dad said.
"Pups," Mom said, "you two go ahead and start preparing the meal. Your dad, Mr. B. and I are going upstairs to the family room and visit. If you need something, call me. Oh, and remember, don't put anything metal in the microwave, Mom added, referring to the time I put an entire can of green beans in the microwave, causing a kitchen fire and ruining the appliance.
"What are we going to whip up?" I asked Chloe, hoping the answer was steak and ice cream.
"I chose several recipes for poultrices. I'm not exactly sure what a poultrice is, but I bet it's like poultry. It's probably a chicken or a hen. Anyway, let's serve a few poultrices for dinner."

"That sounds scrumptious, Chloe!" I replied. Chloe handed me the newspaper with a feature article called "Best Poultrices in Kentucky." I read the recipes Chloe had chosen.
"I want to keep our meal well-balanced, Chloe stated. "Since the poultrice is a bird, we have our meat, so I chose garlic poultrice, an apple-walnut poultrice and a carrot poultrice. Don't forget, Woody, Mom made a homemade peach pie for dessert."
We carefully read the directions and measured the ingredients.
"These recipes look small," Chloe said. "Let's triple the recipe."
"It'll take too long to make each recipe three times," I replied.
"We don't make it three times. We use three times the amount of ingredients to feed three times the amount of people," Chloe explained. "If the recipe calls for one cup of carrots, we'll use three. For two teaspoons of cinnamon, we'll use six."
"I knew that," I said rather smugly.

As we worked together, we heard the sound of a beautiful instrument flowing from upstairs. It sounded like a piano and like that instrument angels play. I think it's called a harp. We listened to Mr. B. singing Sourwood Mountain. Chloe and I do-si-do'd around the table as we set it just like Mom taught us—plates in the middle, salad fork then dinner fork on the left of the plate, and knife then spoon on the right. We filled glasses of sweet tea for the adults and water for Chloe and me. We had a candle on the table but couldn't light it since Mom didn't let us play with matches. It was beautiful.
Chloe had read that people used to ring dinner bells to let everyone know when the meal was ready. We didn't have a real dinner bell, so she pulled out an old, wind-up alarm clock and made the bell ring. In her sweet voice, she said, "Soup's on!!"
Mom, Dad, Mr. B., Chloe, and I all took our places at the table. When everyone was settled, Chloe announced the entrees.
"Well lookie here!" Mr. B. said with a twinkle. "Not only will our bellies be full, but we won't have sore throat, runny nose, upset stomach and the like for a long time. I've had plenty of poultrices in my day, but I must say I've never eaten them for dinner. We lived 22 miles from the nearest doctor, and that was by horseback. If someone got sick he had to do the best he could with what he had. Everybody grew plants and herbs and used them to make their own home remedies—or poultrices. It was like the ol' Jack Tales; home remedies were just handed down from generation to generation."

"You mean Chloe and I prepared medicine?" I asked as Mom dialed the pizza delivery man.

"Sure 'nuff!" Mr. B. replied. "But I bet those are the tastiest poultrices ever!"
Throughout dinner Mr. B. shared stories about growing up in Appalachia. When we finished our pizza and breadsticks, he asked us to come upstairs. "We can eat that peach pie after we sit a spell," he said. "You're gonna go hog wild over what I'm about to show you."

Hello, my name is Jacob McCoy and I am your democrat candidate for Lee County Sheriff. I would like to sincerely thank every citizen who supported me during the primary making it possible for me to continue in my bid to serve as your sheriff.

Family is a number one priority in my life. Next to the youngest son in a family of five boys and five girls, I graduated from Lee County High School in 1998. In 2003, I married my wife Serita and together we have two sons, Jacob and Jordan. We make our home in the Mooretown community of Lee County. I currently work full-time for an electric company, part-time as a substitute teacher for the Lee County School District, and am attending college through Morehead State University where I will complete my bachelor degree in December.

I made the decision to run for sheriff this year because I felt I could help the citizens of Lee County. I am honest and fair and will treat all citizens equally with the respect due them. I want to do my part to ensure my family and your families grow up in healthy and safe communities throughout our county. Our children are the future. They deserve the best environment we can possibly give them in order to grow up and become successful citizens. I would love to have the opportunity to help make this a reality for all of Lee County. I ask for your continued support in November. Vote Jacob McCoy for sheriff. I promise to be the “Real McCoy”.

"HONESTY & INTEGRITY"

Two valuable principles needed to lead and help others.

As your next state representative I will go to Frankfort to improve the roads in the 91st district, seek out funds for new developments and jobs, and find new means of productive recreation for our youth.

Most importantly I will be honest with our friends and neighbors and do everything I can to move this district forward!
